An Unwashed Prince.

The Crown Prince of Russia was afays a very sensible man in the managenent of his household, and he was ably econded by his wife. On one occasion be governor of his children came to im and said:

Your Highness, I must complain of ne little prince; he refuses to have his e washed in the morning." "Does he?" answered the Crown Prince, "We'll remedy that. After his let him go unwashed."

Now the sentries have to salute very member of the royal family-chilren and all—whenever they pass. The lay after the little four-years-old prince vent out for a walk with his governor. As they passed a sentry-box where a rim soldier was posted the man stood igid without presenting arms.
The little prince, accustomed to uni-ersal deference, looked displeased, but aid nothing. Presently another senry was passed. Neither did this one give a sign of recognition. The little prince angrily spoke of it to his governor and they passed on. And when the walk was finished, and they had met many soldiers, who none of them satted the prince, the little fellow dashed nto his father, exclaiming: "Papa! Papa, you must whip every man in your guards! They refuse to salute when I pass."

"Ah, my son," said the Crown Prince, "they do rightly, for clean sol-iers never salute a dirty little prince." After that the boy took a shower bath every morning.—Ingleside.

Young Hendricks' Self-Denial.

The Louisville Courier-Journal tells the following incident of the late Mr. Hendricks' boyhood: "A boy, the son of a poor widow, attended the seminary. One cold November morning the boy came to school barefoot, as he had no shoes. During the forenoon there was a heavy snow-storm. At noon the barefoot boy went to the front door when the school was dismissed, but turned back to re-enter the school-room, as he could not go out into such a storm in his naked feet. Young Hendricks knew all about his poverty, and, following him into the school-room, insisted on taking off his shoes and lending them to the poor boy to wear home. 'You can send them back by sister Nannie, whom I will get to go home with you.' The boy accepted the proffered kindness, and Hendricks sat in the school-room in his stocking feet ill bis stocking. in his stocking-feet till his sister re-turned with his shoes."

THERE are two forms of chronic rheumatism: one in which the joints are swollen and red, without fever, and the appetite and digestion good; in the other the joints are neither red nor swollen, but only stiff and painful. In either form Salvation Oil may be relied on to effect a cure. It kills pain. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

Cape Breton Marriages.

Courtship is by no means a necessary preliminary to marriage: When a young man decides that he will marry he often first builds a house; and it is no trivial matter here, where most of the lumber is sawn by hand in a pit. A man may be said to be in earnest when he begins his suit with months of such hard labor-and that, too, from a disinterested motive, not having the faintest idea, perhaps, as to who will be the mistress of the house. We saw a number of such expectant buildings, in all states and of many ages; for some, failing to get a tenant, stood without windows or doors, the image of a deso-late and empty heart. John —, a young man duly prepared and deter-mined to marry, had set out the previ-ous week with his spokesman to get a wife. He had no particular preference wife. He had no particular preference for any one, but they decided to go first to the house of Mary —, one of the brightest girls of the parish, whom he had often noted, but with whom he had never spoken. When they entered the house, a hint of their object was given to Mary, and she retired from the sitting-room. The spokesman then delivered his speech, in which he praised the personal qualities, the fortune, the social position of his friend, and asked the hand of Mary for him. As the father had no objection to the offer, he at once consented to leave the matter to his daughter. She was called in, and the spokesman conferred quietly awhile with her in a corner, and she consented to the marriage. The spokes-man then led her out to the middle of the floor, and John came from his corner and took her by the hand; thus the "contract" was accepted, under the usual penalty of forfeiting $20 in case the engagement was broken.-Harper's Magazine.

THE pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction.
